

PRESENTATION OF NEW PRODUCTS, February 2009

December 10, 2008, Dubai

These days, SIEMENS ENTERPRISE COMMUNICATIONS continues with its OpenPath migration to new unified communications solutions Open Office and OpenScape, along with continued long-term support and upgrades for its other products, including the HiPath 3000 and HiPath 4000.

Subsequently, mid February '09, a seminar is planned for our valid customers and partners to introduce the new products and solutions. It is a priority for us to keep our clients updated about the rapid development of the technology and all advantages they can take from those new features and designs that we are ready to provide them with. With our expert help, it will be easy to integrate a seamless and innovative communications environment into your organization. We'll give you complete flexibility on how you move towards it via OpenPath - a logical and elegant transition that allows you to transform your communications at your own pace.
